

BUS 403 : Organizational Behavior

This course focuses on the primary factors that influence behavior in organizations. This includes leadership, inter/intra-group dynamics, organizational structure and design, change management, culture, power and politics. Students view behavior as it occurs as a consequence of, and a reaction to, such macro-environmental changes as globalization, technology, economic factors and demographic evolution. Students study and analyze behavior within specific organizational contexts.

Credits 4

Prerequisites

BUS 204 or PSY 101, junior standing or above

Semester Offered

Offered fall

Course Definition

WI